AWAIT NEW MEXICAN MOVE

Release of Prisoners Looked Upon Merely as Temporary Stop to the U. S. Demands

(Special to The Herald)

El Paso, June 30.—Border citizens and the American army on the border today settled down to await as patiently as they might, for the next Mexican outbreak. Carranza's return of the prisoners taken at Carrizal is looked upon merely as temporary stop to the demands of the administration. In only one incidental detail did this action comply with the latest note of President Wilson. The big broad issues to be answered have received no formal consideration from Carranza and his advisors, but the crisis in the present situation is believed to be passed.

LEAVE FOR BORDER MONDAY

First N. H. Regiment Nearly Recruited Up to Required Strength.

(Special to The Herald)

Concord, N. H., June 30.—With only 150 men more needed to fill up the ranks of the First Regiment it is felt that the New Hampshire National guard will be recruited up to the required strength by Saturday afternoon. It is then hoped to have the entire organization on its way to the border Monday. Battery A is already up to war strength with 176 men, but it is believed some of these will be dropped tomorrow when the physical test and the inspection will be given them which will leave the minimum required. The Flying Squadron which started out through the North Country to secure new recruits has met with good results. Many have been examined and sent to the camp here and greater results are expected to develop from this action when they complete their trip Saturday. All the equipment of the troops is already on the train here awaiting the departure of the regiment.

STATES ITS VIEWS ON U. S. REPLY

Constitutionalist Government Declares American Note Discourteous and Haughty.

(Special to The Herald)

Mexico City, June 30.—The following statement was given out early today by the department of foreign relations of the constitutional government as representing in fact its views on the reply of the U. S. to Carranza's note requesting the immediate withdrawal of troops from Mexico. It follows:

"It seems strange that the department of state should show surprise and disappointment for the tone and character for the note of the 23d of May which it calls discourteous. When the very same department of state has sent to the Constitutionalist government not only many notes, not only discourteous but haughty to say the least. During this period one hundred and forty Mexicans have been murdered on U. S. territory by American civilians and the same government authorities have also participated although the two countries were at peace and in none of those cases, although representations have been made to the department of state through our minister at Washington, the guilty have ever been brought to justice. These acts have been committed by Americans in American territory or by Texan Mexicans against the lives and interests of Americans. The government of Mexico cannot be held responsible for those acts which have taken place in foreign territory and which should be charged to the nationals of another country. Besides, the American government was well aware of all these facts before recognizing the Constitutionalist government and it now appears prevalent or out of place to bring these facts forward so as to make a base for an unjustified negative to the withdrawal of the American troops from our territory."

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, June 30.—That Consul General Rodgers will be instructed to request an immediate reply to the American note of Sunday, if it is not forthcoming voluntarily, seemed certain here today. The administration is anxious that Carranza outline his attitude toward the American expedition now in Mexico. MORLEY BUTTON CO. CAPTURES THE LEAD

Wins Game From the Consolidation Coal Company, 3 to 1, Pulling Leaders Down Into Second Place in the League Standing.

Since May 12 when the Consolidation Coal Company defeated the Portsmouth Athletic Company in the fifth game of the 1916 Sunset League race, they have led the league standing, until last evening they were pulled from their position back into second place. They were defeated by a 3 to 1 score by the Morley Button Company. The latter team taking the lead with a percentage of 75, the C. C. C. percentage now being 51. Toward the close of each evening last evening the game was interesting and several times each team had men on with one out; but the pitching up of the pitchers held them off.

At the bat the Coal Company had a little better of the discussion, hitting Moran for five side bingles. Driscoll was hit for four. Moran pitched himself out of a hole on several occasions by fanning men in the pitcher. The Morley Button Company had five errors charged to them as against the two charged to the Coal Company. The base running and stealing on the part of the Morley Company players resulted in their winning the game, they having stolen fifteen bases.

The Coal company won the toss and took the field.

NEWINGTON

The death of Mr. James Coleman occurred at his home on Sunday morning at the age of 73 years, after a life of long usefulness and well doing. For the past few years Mr. Coleman has not been in good health. Last fall he was seriously ill and did not rally to be able to be up until the last of February his characteristic energy and will power for a time enabled him to move about and even to take a few drives. Then his illness assumed a more serious form and since then he grew steadily weaker and at times was unconscious of his sufferings.

Mr. Coleman was related to a large number of persons in this vicinity and elsewhere, for he was descended from a line where years ago large families were the rule. This fact alone would have made him known to many, but his long life in one neighborhood and town, his genial and sturdy manners, and his character and ability which won the respect of all who knew him, and who came into converse with him, made him not only a recognized parson of this community but of the adjoining towns and of the two near-by cities of Portsmouth and Dover. He was one of the best types of our respective farmers. He came of an industrious, hard-working family, which prospered by their own energy and sturdy qualities, and he was himself a persistent worker and was several times a week seen about his business in Portsmouth, where he had many staunch friends, until he was disabled by sickness to give up his accustomed work.

The respect in which he was held by his neighbors and fellow townsmen has been shown by his election to serve the town in several capacities, which he did in such an able and faithful manner as to win the esteem and respect of everyone. He has been a lifelong Democrat, and our town has never held a stronger or more consistent member of that political faith than he. He was a member of the Piscataqua Grange and was much interested in this organized society and was a faithful attendant at the meetings of the different granges which were held in this vicinity, as long as he was able.

He was a member of the Unitarian society and attended their services whenever they were held. He also in years past was a constant attendant to our regular Sunday services, and was the oldest member of the Congregational society. The death of such a man is a public loss and the whole community sympathizes with the wife, son and daughters. To the bereaved and grief-stricken widow, left alone after fifty years of married happiness and companionship passed together, heartfelt sympathy is extended. A beloved husband, a kind father and a true and staunch friend is gone and the loss is great, but he gains the rest and eternal life of those who have done well their part through the trials and tribulations of this life.

The funeral was held at his late residence on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Alfred Gooding of Portsmouth, assisted by Rev. Mr. Berkley, officiated. The house was filled with relatives and friends to pay the last sad respects to the memory of the departed one. The profuse and beautiful floral offerings attested to the love and esteem in which he was held. The words of the pastor's eulogy of the many virtues of the deceased were very comforting to the members of the broken family circle. He was laid away in the family lot in the cemetery, and not only the grave but the lot was covered with flowers.

Mrs. Nancy Nutter, Mr. and Mrs. John Nutter of Chelsea, Miss Ida Nutter of Franklin and relatives from Durham, Dover and Newmarket attended the funeral of Mr. James Coleman on Wednesday. Many friends from the adjoining towns and city were also present.

The most of the pupils in the eighth grade of the grammar school passed successfully the examination which will admit them to the high school in Portsmouth in the fall.

Congratulations are extended to Edward Berkley for his completing the first two years of his high school course in such a creditable manner as to win the medal.

The Misses Mary and Grace Pickering passed Sunday with relatives in South Eliot, Me.

The friends of Mr. Sidney Frank will be pleased to learn that he has nearly recovered from what might have been a painful and a serious accident.

The farce to be presented in the town hall by the lady members of the Reapers' Society, this Thursday evening will be pleasing and entertaining and all will recall the readings in the past of Mrs. Griffiths of Durham and there is no doubt but the readings which she will deliver in her usual able and charming manner which enables her to captivate the attention of her audience, so come one and all and fill the hall.

Miss Eunice Ransom, teacher of the grammar school, has returned to her home in Mattapoisett to pass the vacation.

AMERICA FIRST SAYS WILSON

President in Philadelphia Address Gives His Definition of the Slogan.

Philadelphia, June 30.—President Wilson describing himself as "in a fighting mood," finished Thursday to a large audience in Independence Square his conception of some of the cardinal American facts. He declared that America in dealing with other nations "must vindicate at whatever cost its principles of liberty, justice and humanity," that "America first" must be translated into action, excluding all selfish interests; and that the nation's policy and development must be guided by the whole people and not by any group.

Applause repeatedly interrupted the address. The crowd liked particularly the President's declaration that American principles must be vindicated in the country's foreign relations which apparently was interpreted as referring to the Mexican situation. At no time, however, did Mr. Wilson mention Mexico or any other foreign nation directly.

Urging that the whole people should shape the national policies, the President said that some men pretended to believe in the average man, but when they acted they showed that they did not.

"Oh you Teddy!" some one shouted and the President hastened to explain that he was not referring to any certain individual.

Officially the President addressed delegates to the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, but a mixed crowd heard him. He spoke in the open air under the shadow of Independence hall. He left for Washington immediately after the address.

PATRIOTIC AND SANE CELEBRATION PLANNED

Elaborate Plans, Involving Large Expenditures for Night Before the Fourth, Considered Unwise Because of Present Crisis.

Portsmouth is practically assured of a patriotic celebration on the eve of the Fourth of July although the elaborate plans arranged by the Carnival Committee have in a great measure been laid aside for this year, owing to the crisis which has presented itself in the country at this time. In this, the Portsmouth Carnival Committee is only following the lead of the committees in other of the cities, many of which, including Boston, having abandoned practically all of their plans. The celebration will not be as elaborate as was intended, but there is going to be a good time and Portsmouth need not be ashamed of the efforts of the committee.

At the meeting held in the court house last evening, presided over by Fred A. Gray, chairman of the Carnival Committee, Mr. Sise, president of the Portsmouth Board of Trade, and a member of the committee was called upon to state to the delegates of the several organizations represented at the meeting, his views, as expressed to the committee earlier in the day. In substance Mr. Sise stated that he did not believe that Portsmouth could or should attempt to afford at this time, the financing of a costly celebration because of the crisis and situation the entire nation is facing. Mr. Sise had just returned from a tour of the state and coming to the meeting with a different view of the situation that he had held before leaving here a few days ago. He said in part—

"Although it has not hit Portsmouth yet, it may at any time and when it does we will all realize just what it means to 'burn up' a large sum of money this year. In other towns and cities, through which I had passed during the last two or three days, the bread winners of the families are leaving for the front and the support of those dependent upon them has been cut off in many instances. This means that others are to be called upon to aid the families of the men who have gone to protect our border, and it may not be but a short time before we are called upon to do our share in this work.

"It is not from a lack of patriotism that I am urging a quiet celebration, but a quiet celebration at this time seems to me to be one of the ways in which we can best show our patriotism; to be ready when the time comes to aid in the great work of caring for the members of the families which have been left without support by the men called by the United States Government to protect the country."

Mr. Sise mentioned a number of the sights he had witnessed up the state where men had been recruited for the ranks of the New Hampshire National Guard to be mustered into the federal service. He said that the committee would go ahead with the plans to which they had already been committed and that the monster bonfire on the playgrounds would be carried out. Other speakers, voicing the same sentiments were Mr. William Dow of the committee, Mr. Gray, Mr. Costello, secretary of the committee, Captain C. J. Hadwell of the 1st company, C. A. C., Miss Goodwin, representing the Girls' Club and others. On a motion by Mr. Dow it was unanimously voted by the delegates that the plans for the celebration be left entirely in the hands of the committee.

Following the meeting the committee held a meeting and discussed plans for the carrying out of some celebration. The citizens are now assured of one good time on the eve of the national birthday. It has been admitted that the proposed work horse parade will be better postponed to some future date and the big automobile parade has also been abandoned, owing to the great expense attached. But there will still be the band concerts on the square, the costume dancing party on the square and the parade, which will finish at the playgrounds when the big bonfire is set off.

The committee has two bands engaged for the night and that should be worth something. The proposed fireworks at midnight have been abandoned.

Children's Sports

In the morning of the Fourth at 10:00 o'clock the sports for the children will be held at the playgrounds. This part of the program is in charge of a committee including Mrs. Donald McNeil, Miss Goodwin and Miss Wright. The members of the Girls' Club, the Camp Fire Girls, and the Boy Scouts are requested to meet at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Saturday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock for instruction and rehearsal for their part in the exercises.

The committee has been asked to notify all attending the meeting to bring copies of music books containing the following numbers: The Star Spangled Banner, America, Dixie, Old Folks at Home, My Old Kentucky Home, Columbia the Gem of the Ocean, Tenting on the Old Camp Ground, Trump, Trump, the Boys are Marching, Old Black Joe, and other patriotic and old time melodies.

The exercises as planned for the children should prove interesting and well worth attending and the sports program, for which suitable prizes will be awarded, will be announced at the meeting on Saturday afternoon by Mr. McNeil at the Y. M. C. A.

Help Wanted.

The problem facing the committee at present is the lack of help in getting the bonfire erected. Much of the material is already at hand and the fire will be one of the best ever built in the city provided the necessary help can be obtained. Two thousand railroad sleepers have been secured for the mainstay of the fire and the hauling of these to the grounds and the erection of the fire is going to cost so much as to make it an almost impossibility without a great amount of volunteer help.

The fire is planned to be thirty-five or forty feet high with a base of more than twenty feet square. In speaking to the committee last evening one of the members of the Little Bowery Athletic Association stated that if they were asked they would do the work alone and be glad to do it. The committee felt that asking anything of the sort is putting too much work upon good nature. But the committee is asking for volunteers and able bodied young men who wish to help in this work are requested to notify either Mr. Gray or Mr. Costello between now and Saturday noon when the work of building the fire must be started. There is going to be a celebration; concerts, dancing, parade and bonfire and if you want to do your part toward donating $200, or more to the fund for the relief of the families of the men who are leaving for the front this is your chance.

TWO SUICIDES FOLLOW MURDER OF JUDGE

Monteville, Ala., June 29.—The murder of Probate Judge W. T. Lawler, the suicide of Sheriff Robert Phillips and the suicide of Selby S. Pleasants, a prominent attorney have occurred in Madison county and North Alabama. D. D. Overton, a political friend of the dead sheriff, under indictment for first degree murder in connection with the death of Judge Lawler, is being sought in every part of the country, the authorities being spurred on by hope of gaining the $1,000 reward that dangles over his head.

The body of Judge Lawler was found weighted down with railroad iron on the bottom of the Tennessee river. Before the body had been placed in the cemetery vault, Pleasants ended his life with a bullet.

The grand jury was then in session. As it was preparing to adjourn and the city was waiting for the indictments to be pronounced, Sheriff Phillips went to the rear of the county jail and sent a bullet crashing through his brain.

He left a note saying he could not stand it to be accused of Judge Lawler's death. The note was the first indication that he might have had anything to do with the sensational murder.

It was the same in the case of Attorney Pleasants. He, too, said just before his death that he could not face the people knowing they believed him guilty of the murder of the judge. It is intimated that sensational testimony will be offered by the state when Charles M. Nalls, under indictment for the murder of Judge Lawler, is placed on trial.

HISTORIC "NUTTER HOUSE" ATTRACTIVE TO VISITORS

"Nutter House," on Court street, charmingly described in "The Story of a Bad Boy," and in which the youthful days and many of the vacations and holidays of Thomas Bailey Aldrich were spent, is opened to summer visitors from about June 20 to Sept. 25.

The house was formerly owned and occupied by Thomas Darling Bailey, grandfather of Thomas Bailey Aldrich, and the "Grandfather Nutter" of the story, the name Nutter being the maiden name of Aldrich's grandmother and borrowed for use in the book to shield from publicity the members of the family then living in the old house. To give the reader a picture of the house as it appeared in the days of young Tom Bailey of the story mentioned, and as it looks today to the pilgrim visiting Portsmouth, no better words can be selected than those from chapter V. of the book.

"The Nutter house has been in our family nearly 100 years and is an honor to the builder, supposing durability to be the merit. Such timber and such workmanship do not often come together in houses built nowadays.

"Imagine a low-studded structure, with a wide hall running through the middle. At your right as you enter stands a tall, black mahogany clock.

On each side of the hall are doors opening into large rooms, wainscoted and rich in wood carvings about the mantelpieces and cornices. The walls are covered with pictured paper representing landscapes and sea views.

"There are neither grates nor stoves in these quiet chambers, but splendid open chimneys, with room enough for the corpulent backlog to turn over comfortably on the polished andirons. A wide staircase leads from the hall to the second story, which is arranged much like the first. Over this is the garret."

The two large elms which shaded the house Tom Bailey was a boy have disappeared, but the old garden at the rear of the house still has a place for every flower mentioned in Mr. Aldrich's poems. At the side of the garden is to be seen a fireproof building erected by members of the family, in which the large collection of pictures, manuscripts, books and other articles of interest relating to or treasured by the poet are arranged. Among these is the table upon which "The Story of a Bad Boy" was written, with a record in Aldrich's handwriting pasted on the inside of the drawer. Glass cases and shelves contain many things of historical interest, curios from the Orient, and first editions, and on the walls are framed photographs most of them autographed and letters from men of note in many countries. The names of Matthew Arnold, Oliver Wendell Holmes, William Cullen Bryant, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Walt Whitman, Longfellow, Tennyson, Browning, Keats, Shelley, Swinburne, Watson, Leigh Hunt and Edwin Booth held prominent places.

The interior of the house, however, in no way reflects the atmosphere of a museum. It is decidedly a house that has been lived in and, to the casual observer, might be occupied at the present time, with the members of the family out for a few moments. Not only have the original articles of furniture been restored to the rooms, but many small personal belongings of the drawers of the dressers, the sideboard and the closets.

To lovers of the "Bad Boy" the little room of which he speaks so lovingly in telling of his arrival at the "Nutter House" after a journey from New Orleans, is the center of interest. "Nothing among my new surroundings," he said, "gave me more satisfaction than the cozy sleeping apartment that had been prepared for myself. It was the hall room over the front door. I had never before had a chamber all to myself, and this one was a marvel of neatness and comfort. Pretty chintz curtains hung at the window and a patch quilt of more colors than were in Joseph's coat covered the little trundle bed. The pattern of the wall paper left nothing to be desired in that line. On a gray background were small bunches of leaves, unlike any that ever grew in the world; and on every other bunch perched a yellow bird, pitted with crimson spots. That no such bird ever existed did not detract from my admiration of each one. There were two hundred and sixty-eight of these birds in all, not counting those split in two where the wall paper was badly joined."

After enumerating the various articles of furniture, the boy names which enthusiasm the books on the two shelves over the bed, in the restoration of the room the books have been put back upon the shelves, the many-colored quilt is still upon the bed. Even Tom Bailey himself would see no difference between his room of today and the retreat of his boyhood.

The wall paper presented the greatest problem to those who arranged the room as it was in the old time, for in these days of modern wall coverings of more artistic if not more striking design, no paper to coincide with the memory of those who knew that described by Tom Bailey could be found. In fact even the manufacturers fell short in their reproductions but at length the pattern was designed on the proper colored background and the birds were painted in by hand by Mrs. Thomas Bailey Aldrich and her son. A portion of the wall paper has been left unaltered that it may be completed by the grandson of the room's early occupant. On the back of a chair hangs the coat made by Tom Bailey's mother as a part of a uniform for the company of soldier boys, which figured in the play of Tom and his chums. Twenty-five of these regimentals are said to have been the fruits of the mother's busy fingers. In the other rooms minute details have been faithfully carried out under the direction of Mrs. Aldrich, and the old furniture is in its accustomed place.

In telling of her first visit to the house, she recently said that the whole interior and style of the quaint New England house was so different from that of her own New York home that it made a lasting impression upon her. She was charmed with the low-ceiled rooms, with their big fireplaces the great four poster beds, and the other furniture so typical of New England towns of similar date, but quite different from the black walnut and the upholstered furniture then in vogue in New York and the high-ceiled, turn-of-the-century rooms of her childhood experience.

These first impressions, she never forgot, and when the city of Portsmouth, in 1907, announced its intention to purchase the "Nutter House" which had been out of the family for 40 years, as a memorial to Thomas Bailey Aldrich, with other members of the family she volunteered to re-stall the original furnishings and arrange them. A fund of $10,000 was soon raised by public subscription, the house was purchased and Mrs. Aldrich began her task. In a comparatively short time the kitchen in which "Kitty Collins" held sway was arranged, with the original Kitty as director-in-charge.

In the parlor that Tom Bailey said was opened only on special occasions and that smelled strongly of cedar table, the family portraits keep guard over the piano. The sitting room, in which the family group gathered after supper, while "Grandfather Nutter" read the local newspaper, the chambers, each with its touches characteristic of the individual who inhabited it the blue chintz room, always kept closed except when company was expected, afford a picture of the home life in a New England town of more than half a century ago, rarely if ever surpassed in any of the old-time houses that have been preserved. Since the barn in which the real theatre of the story was held has disappeared, the liberty has been taken of installing this feature in the attic so loved by Tom Bailey for many day reading.

"Nutter House" was always the symbol of home to Thomas Bailey Aldrich. Here his early years of fun and frolic were spent, and here in later years, as a series of vivid boyhood memories, these experiences were written down for other children in "The Story of a Bad Boy."

NEW FIGHT ON STRINGENT ARKANSAS LIQUOR LAW.

Little Rock, Ark., June 30.—Petitions are being circulated all over Arkansas in an effort to secure the names of 14,000 persons who want the prohibition laws of Arkansas changed. The law provides that when ten per cent of the voting population of the state petitions for an election on the prohibition question the election must be called.

Arkansas has one of the most stringent prohibition laws in the south. There is only one penalty that can be imposed for selling liquor and that is six months at hard labor in the penitentiary. Early indications are that enough names to insure the election will be secured but if the election is

The Threatened Railroad Strike.

The proposition of the railroads to have the differences between them and their employees settled by arbitration will strike the great majority of the public as reasonable and fair. The employees have asked for an eight-hour day and increases in wages which together would entail an additional expense of $100,000,000 a year in the operation of the roads. The companies and the men have been unable to reach an agreement, and the employees are now voting on the question of a strike which would tie up or seriously cripple practically all the leading railroads of the country.

The railroads are ready for arbitration by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which would seem to be the proper body for the task, as the members are familiar with all matters pertaining to railroading and are in a position to permit rates which would enable the companies to meet the extra costs of operation in case the demands or any part of the demands of the employees should be granted. But if this proposition is not satisfactory the companies are willing to have the matter arbitrated under the provisions of a federal law known as the Newlands act. All they ask is that every question involved be submitted to an impartial body having authority to pass final judgment.

As stated, this will strike the majority of the public as a fair and honorable proposition. If accepted it would mean a certainty that the business of the railroads would not be interrupted, and this is a matter of prime significance to the companies, the public and the employees themselves. Any material interference with the operation of the railroads of the country would mean disaster to business and all classes would be bound to suffer. The railroad men and their families would not be exempt.

The hope will be general that some way may be found for the adjustment of the existing differences without resort to so radical a remedy as a strike, which would mean serious trouble and tremendous losses to all directly concerned, and to the public as well. The railroad men will do well to think twice before deciding to inflict such a blow upon the country.

Lightning appears disposed to be particularly savage this year, according to reports from many quarters since the season of thunder showers opened. Many buildings have been damaged or destroyed and numerous lives have been lost, and this in a season when thunder storms have been less numerous than usual up to this time. It is to be hoped that the record this far is not a correct forecast of the season as a whole.

Two boys were seriously wounded by a spring gun in the cellar of a Delaware house a few days ago. The cellar had been entered several times and the owner thought he would try the virtues of a spring gun, which proved very efficient. It was harsh medicine for the boys, but they had no proper business in the cellar, and the incident may prove of benefit to others whose premises have been marauded by thieves.

At an advertising men's convention in Philadelphia the editor of a religious publication and other speakers contended that it is as necessary and appropriate for a church to advertise as it is for a business house. This may be true in a sense, but a church should be very careful how it advertises. In the case of such an institution the strict fulfillment of its mission is pretty good advertising.

The Fourth of July is close at hand and the call for keeping its celebration safe and sane is strictly in order. There has been vast improvement along this line in the last few years and the good work should continue. There is slaughter enough in the world at present without introducing it into the celebration of a patriotic holiday.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is enjoying an "Old Home Week," with all that the term implies. These gatherings were very popular some years ago, but for some reason not so many are now held as formerly. Possibly one week is a little too long for the average community to give its attention to any one thing in the entertainment line.

England's heavy income tax is disturbing Americans who have become citizens of that country and the authorities are considering means of relief. Perhaps they are afraid the "money bags" will emigrate to the United States and take out naturalization papers.

The strawberry festival season is in full swing and there was never a better supply of "limber" for the chief dish. Strawberries are large and luscious and prices are reasonable.

Efforts to mediate the troubles between the United States and Mexico appear to be strictly in the A B C class.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

(From Boston Herald)

The Plea for Arbitration

If ever there was a case for arbitration it has arisen between ourselves and Mexico. That we have cause for war is indubitable. This is just what calls for arbitration—unless the whole idea of arbitration is a fallacy. The states of South America are as anxious as we are that Mexico shall live in safety, quietude and independence. Among the European nations antagonism and interest make the arbitration of many, indeed nearly any, European quarrel almost impossible. There is no tribunal that can be trusted.

But similar antagonisms do not exist in this hemisphere. A tribunal of the western world that could settle this Mexican embargo would be a precedent of hope for all humanity.

Then why is there no talk of arbitration? Why is this war fever aroused against Mexico? I can find no explanation for it except that the administration thinks that a war with Mexico is good politics. Are we to send our sons to die in Mexico because Wilson thinks it will help to elect him? In dying for one's country it makes a great difference what is the cause of war.

Through indecision and procrastination in the past our part Mexico's sins against us have been fanned into fanaticalisms. But this is no excuse for us that we should shut the door on reason. If there were any way of joining an army that should enforce arbitration between ourselves and Mexico I should willingly join it.

There is another consideration, the greatest. If we are not able to arbitrate this little quarrel with a weak neighbor our power to help the cause of arbitration in the world is lost. We are, it appears, merely talkers and hypocrites.

KITTERY

Just received at Eugene's one ton of candy. 11 W. J. 26.

Kittery's first band concert given by the merchants of the town, held on Thursday evening, was a great success, and it is practically assured that another will be held next Thursday evening. There was a very large attendance, many coming from Kittery Point, Elliot and Portsmouth. The music was furnished by Kirkpatrick's Brass Band, and the program presented was exceptionally fine, every one commending upon it with loud praises. Such affairs draw a large number from out of town, and diversify things up as well as putting Kittery on the map as a real town. It is hoped that these concerts can be given once a week during the summer, and this plan is possible if all will contribute a little toward the expense of the undertaking. Contributions will be taken by J. P. Eugene and all contributions will be gladly received. The concert on Thursday evening began at 7:30 o'clock promptly and lasted until after 9:30 o'clock. Between each selection a popular air was played. The program follows:

March—Washington's Greys.....
Grafton
Overture—Jolly Robbers.....
Selection—Merry Widow.....
Waltz—Chocolate Soldier.....
Strauss
Selection—China Chün.....
Caryl
Intermezzo—Frozen Bill.....
Pryor
Waltz—Humorous Humoresque.....

CURRENT OPINION

Prevention of Tuberculosis Should Be Made a National Problem.

In the United States tuberculosis has been mainly a local problem, in small degree a state problem and hardly at all as yet a national problem. The time has come when the federal authorities should assume that degree of efficient leadership which they are exercising in the problems of agriculture and other economic interests.

Statistics collected by the National Tuberculosis association show an expenditure for the care and prevention of tuberculosis in the United States last year of $22,500,000. This is almost wholly a local or state expenditure. By means of a division of tuberculosis in the United States public health service, with a trifling expenditure as compared with this $22,000,000, the federal authorities could by wise leadership tremendously increase the effectiveness of this enormous local expenditure.

Only through the United States public health service can any degree of uniformity of method and efficiency in the tuberculosis campaign in forty-eight different states be secured. The standardization of hospitals, sanitariums, dispensaries, nursing service and home supervision and all the other elements in the tuberculosis movement can only be secured through federal action. Just as the state helps to co-ordinate the work of the localities within the state, so the federal authorities should help a co-ordinate the work in the various states. Only in this way can the vital national interest in the supervision of tuberculosis be made effective.—By Homer Folks, Secretary of the New York State Charities Aid Association.

WINDOWS BROKEN BY BLAST

Several panes of glass in the residence of W. Gay Smart on Vaughan street were broken on Friday morning by the force of a blast fired by workmen who are taking out the ledge under the old Meserve-Webster house on the opposite side of the street. The blast was an unusually heavy one and shook the buildings in the near vicinity.

PEOPLE and THINGS

Owing to the refitting and the placing of a new boiler in the Sheds steamer Sightsaver, she will be delayed on her run for several days. The San Adams and James Boardman's powerful motor boats will substitute until the arrival of the steamer. A very large number of arrivals are expected Saturday.

A party of sixty Newburyport business men arrived at the Farragut yesterday for a day's outing. Many of the party toured in this city during the afternoon for sightseeing. A banquet followed in the evening.

There is an excellent opportunity for anyone in this territory or in this city to make a handsome sum by liberally advertising harbor excursions and fishing trips for out-of-town people. Hardly a day passes but one to a dozen people call the Herald for information as to how they can obtain the services of fishermen or a river boatman. Summer fishing could be made a feature for people coming to this city.

A special excursion train is to be run from this city to Concord on Sunday, July 23, to enable the people from this territory to visit the camp ground to see the troops before their departure on Monday next. Portsmouth will send quite a delegation to the Capital city for a visit. A special low rate has been named by the railroad. The train leaves this city at 9:40 a. m.

THE G. A. R. VETS.

We are too old to do the stunt of hiking to the battle front. As in the States we had done. When Uncle Sam's great cause was won. We're just as patriotic though. And would be willing yet to go if age did not so interfere. To make us any longer here. The sons and grand-sons who respond We grudge the honor that's beyond. Our falling years, but as they go Our hearts in blessings overflow. And we, the soldiers run to seed. The younger soldiers wish God speed. —J. E. Moore.

GERMAN U-BOAT FAILS TO APPEAR

Story of Its Arrival at Newport News on Thursday a Hoax.

Baltimore, June 30.—It is now generally believed that the story of the German submarine is a hoax of the searport strike. The North German Lloyd Steamship Company last night denied that it has any knowledge of the U-boat movements.

The company's agents just smiled all over when they learned Capt. Hans Ruser of the Venterland announced in New York that they telegraphed him of the submarine's arrival in Chesapeake Bay.

Paul G. J. Piken, Baltimore agent for the North German Lloyd Line, more than smiled.

"No, the submarine has not yet arrived and we don't expect it to steam up the Chesapeake," he said.

"We expect a Zeppelin about 4 o'clock next week and it might bring the submarine dangling from its anchor ropes."

TROOPERS FREED AT EL PASO

U. S. Cavalrymen Captured
by Mexicans at Carrizal
Are Released.

El Paso, Texas, June 30.—Half-dressed in rags and apparel of a non-descript character, the 23 U. S. cavalrymen whose arrest at Carrizal and imprisonment at Chihuahua have come near precipitating Mexico and the United States into a war reached El Paso Thursday afternoon and were released by the Mexican officials to the United States army officers.

Brought from Chihuahua City on a special train that left there during the night with the Negro troopers and Lem Spittsburg, their Mormon scout and interpreter, they reached the Mexican border town at noon today, under heavy guard. This afternoon at 3 o'clock they were brought to the international bridge and formally surrendered to Brig. General George Bell Jr., commanding the American border patrol, complying with the demand of President Wilson on the Carranza government.

The Negroes had been stripped of much of their uniforms when made prisoners by the Mexicans and when they alighted from their prison train they evoked shouts of derision from the Mexican civilian populace gathered at the station.

Their ragged, tattered appearance contrasted strongly with the natty new uniforms of the Carranza guards. Apparently some of the best dressed soldiers at Chihuahua had been picked to guard the Americans to the border. In the ears ahead of those occupied by the prisoners were saddles, horses and equipment taken by the Carranza forces from the prisoners at the Carrizal battle where the Carranza troops were said to have annihilated the Americans.

After being marched to military headquarters in Jarez the prisoners were next sent to the fumigation plant of the Mexican government where their clothing was given the necessary treatment to permit the men to pass the American health authorities. Then they were escorted to the international bridge and surrendered to General Bell. Again the fumigation process was gone through and all the men were given vinegar baths. "We sure are glad to be back," was the general expression of the troopers.

They were sent to Fort Bliss for food and clothing and after recuperating will be returned to their command in Mexico.

Archie Jones, W. D. Gibson and Luther Alexander, three of the Negro prisoners declared positively after reaching the American side of the line that they saw Mexican soldiers going over the battlefield after the Americans had been driven off and shooting the American wounded. They said they believed several of the American wounded were thus killed.

GERMANS FAIL TO GAIN IN TERRIFIC CHARGES

Paris, June 29.—After a violent bombardment which lasted the entire day, the Germans attacked the French positions northwest of Thiaumont in the Verdun sector, but were repulsed with heavy losses, according to an official statement issued by the War Office today.

The French machine gun and curtain fire is declared to have devastated the attackers.

The text of the statement follows: "In the Champagne district, in the vicinity of Thiaumont and at a point to the west of Batte de Mesnil, a successful surprise attack made it possible for us to clean up certain trenches of the enemy on the first line and to penetrate at several places as far as the second line. Here we blew up a number of sheltering works. On the left bank of the River Meuse there has been artillery fighting in the section of Hill 301, but without any infantry fighting.

"On the right bank of the river, after a violent bombardment which lasted all yesterday afternoon, the Germans, at about 8 o'clock in the evening, delivered a strong attack upon our positions to the northwest of the Thiaumont work. Checked by our curtain of fire and the fire of our machine guns, the enemy was not able to reach our lines at any point, and they sustained great losses.

"Last night there was a very spirited bombardment in the region of Chenoy."

British Making Many French Raids Nightly.

British Headquarters, in France, Wednesday, June 29, via London, June 29.—Usually heavy artillery firing, with numbers of trench raids, sunk by a submarine on Tuesday, have arrived at Port Mahon, Maldives, in the ship's boats.

Samuel Hill to Hasten Trans-Siberian Traffic.

Seattle, Wash., June 29.—Samuel Hill of this city, millionaire son-in-law of the late James J. Hill, and noted as a railroad executive and real builder has gone to Vladivostok, at the request of the Russian Government to take charge of the traffic department of the Trans-Siberian Railway. It is reported here that the appointment is made with a view to facilitating the movement of war supplies.

Maj. Viscount Crichton's Body Found and Buried.

London, June 29.—Germany has notified Great Britain, through the American Embassy, that the body of Maj. Viscount Crichton has been found and reinterred.

This is the first definite information the family has had of the fate of Lord Henry William Crichton, who had been missing since November 1913.

Viscount Crichton was born in 1872 and was a member of the Royal House Guards. He had been missing since November 1913 and had been reported a prisoner in the hands of the Germans.

French Premier Protests at Emptying of Lille.

Paris, June 29.—Premier Ribot has sent a protest to the neutral Powers against the action of the German military authorities in ordering the evacuation by civilians of the towns of Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing, according to the Petit Journal. The protest is on the ground that the order is contrary to The Hague convention.

The three towns named are in the northern part of the department of Nord, France, now held by the Germans, and are near Ypres, Belgium and Arras, France, held by the British troops.

Rhineland Cathedral Will be Left Unrepaired.

Paris, June 29.—Rhineland Cathedral will not be repaired for several years after the war closes, according to the plans of the French Government as outlined by the Petit Journal. This decision has been reached in order that Frenchmen and foreigners may have an opportunity to see how the Cathedral has suffered from German gunfire. The famous structure is reported to be suffering serious deterioration from wind and weather. The Administration of Fine Arts had decided to erect a temporary shelter about the edifice and reconstruct the roof, but these plans have been abandoned in deference to the wishes of the Government.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, June 30.—Telegrams were sent today to President Wilson and to the director general of the Pan-American Union by the Massachusetts Branch of the Woman's Peace Party urging that they exert every effort to settle the difference between this country and Mexico by means of arbitration and mediation. The telegram to the director-general read: "In view of the untold loss of life and property which would result from an interminable war of the strong and rich against the poor and which would debase our national honor and reputation among the nations of the world, we urge: First—That the President consent to mediation; second, that our troops be withdrawn from Mexico pending an investigation of the relation that American business interests bear to the 'hundred' raids; third, that Congress explicitly endorse the statement of President Wilson in the Mobile address that the U. S. would never take any land by conquest; fourth, that all patriotic citizens instantly appeal to the President and to Congress to stay the act which would place the United States in the position of Austria to Serbia in August, 1914." This is the telegram sent to the President by the president of the executive board. Austria refuses to arbitrate with little Serbia. If we are not willing to arbitrate our quarrel with a weak neighbor, our power to help the cause of arbitration in the world is lost. We beg you to continue to uphold the honor of our great nation by the policies you have heretofore pursued so successfully.

FAMOUS CIRCUS FREAKS ARE AGAIN FAVORITES

OLD TIME FORUM OF HUMAN CURIOSITIES REVIVED THIS YEAR BY BARNUM & BAILEY

The old-time circus freak is coming into his own once again. After several years of retirement, the odds and ends of human life are again a feature of attraction of the Barnum & Bailey Circus this season, and one of the greatest gatherings of human curiosities ever assembled will come to Portsmouth with the circus on July 5.

Since the passing of the "dime museums" and the retirement of the freaks from circus life, these strange people have mostly gathered in little colonies of their own, in the suburbs of Philadelphia and New York, and lived secluded lives. Most of the old-timers are wealthy and own their own homes, but, like all other members of the sawdust world, they long for the free, happy life of the circus, and they are prone to be extremely sensitive to their misfortune, when left to their own resources. Seldom, if ever, is a freak to be seen in public when not on exhibition, and this explains the secluded little colonies where most of them have lived during the past few years.

So many demands have been made on the management of the Barnum & Bailey Circus by the public for the return of the freaks that an effort has been made this season to revive the old-time freak congress that was once a stellar attraction with the big shows. Of course, even at late years, there have always been a few curiosities of this nature in the side shows, but this season all the good old-timers will be on the job, as well as a host of new ones that have sprung up.

The giants, the human skeletons, the maling links, the bearded women, the fat women, the midwives, the albinos, the tattooed wonders, the wild men, the strong men, the smileless men, the three-legged youths, in fact all the strange and curious population of human whatnots in America and abroad will appear in the forum of freaks with the Barnum & Bailey Circus this season. Many of the old-timers, who amazed our grandfathers, will once more be on exhibition.

HOT WEATHER RULES

The following hot weather rules for drivers and owners of horses will be found to be of interest. They are prepared by the Boston Work Horse Relief Association, and are as follows: 1. Load lightly and drive slowly. 2. Stop in the shade if possible. 3. Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is walking, water in small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still. Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay. 4. When he comes in after work sponge off the harness marks with sweat, his eyes and nose and mouth, and the dock. Wash his feet but not his legs. 5. If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a damp sponge. Use vinegar water if the money money, who amazed our grandfathers, will once more be on exhibition. The Barnum & Bailey Circus will come here on 52 cars, carrying more than 1,400 people in its various departments. More than 400 artists participate in the arena entertainment, and the big new menagerie contains 105 cages of wild animals, in addition to a herd of 41 elephants, five giraffes, 28 camels, and a large number of zebras and other odd animals. The gorgeous, new, Oriental display "Persia, or the Pageants of the Thousand and One Nights" with its wealth of brilliant costumes, will be the opening feature of each performance.

The communication called attention to the section of the law which provides that a militiaman who refuses to be mustered into the federal service upon demand of the President shall be subject to court martial.

General Cole said that between 500 and 800 men had refused to take the oath and that he had issued about 50 discharges in the belief that he was within his rights under the law. In view of the war department's interpretation of the statute he said that he would order all militiamen who had returned to the homes from the camp at Framingham to report at the camp again.

EUROPEAN WAR ORDERS NOW AID OUR DEFENSE

New York, June 29.—The United States is vastly better prepared today to supply an army of 500,000 men in Mexico than it would have been had the European war not sent enormous orders to this country for just the materials we now need.

The exact opposite is the case to the quite general impression that the pre-occupation of our manufacturers making things for the Allies will prevent their turning out goods for Uncle Sam.

In the last two years American plants have been enlarged to many hundred times their previous capacity for manufacturing munitions. Thousands of workmen have learned new tasks and quantities of machinery to make munitions have been installed. The great orders from the Allies running to many hundreds of millions of dollars, are just beginning to fall off.

It is an easy matter for our manufacturers now to increase their capacity in the slight degree necessary to fill American government orders. The Entente Allies have about 13,000,000 men in the field or twenty-six times the 500,000 we might require for a war with Mexico.

It is figured here that American demands will only be about ten per cent of the quantity of materials the United States has been supplying to Europe.

Many patriotic Americans, have all along refused to turn their whole capacity over to the Allies because they insisted on leaving a margin to fill American orders if we should go to war.

If the United States should now commandeer the whole output of American munition factories it would be embarrassed by wealth of material, for it would quickly get ten times as much stuff as it needed.

At the same time, the government may take away from the Allies certain things contracted for here of which there is a great scarcity, such as sulphuric acid and electric acid. It might also seize, as it has the legal right to do, armored cars, field guns, aeroplanes, and other things standing ready for export in order to save them in such cases, the foreign governments which had purchased these things would be reimbursed.

LABOR NOTES

MINNEAPOLIS CONFERENCE OF EMPLOYMENT MANAGERS

(From U. S. Department of Labor.)

In connection with the annual convention of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education and at the special invitation of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association, an informal conference on employment management problems was held at Minneapolis on January 19 and 20, 1916. The proceedings of this conference of employment managers are printed as Bulletin 136 of the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the United States Department of Labor.

One of the important subjects discussed at the conference was means of reducing the labor turnover, that is, the proportion of the number of employees engaged in a year to the total number of employees on the pay roll, and it was urged in one of the papers read that this reduction may be effected by the proper selection of employees, by developing the efficiency of each employee for his particular task, by creating a favorable mental background for work, by reducing the number of arbitrary dismissals, by standardizing the rate of production, by maintaining a clearing house for labor between the various departments and by protecting the physical health of the worker. Other remedies suggested were the establishment of a central employment department, physical examinations of applicants, industrial education and square-deal management.

An important feature of the conference was the consideration of the necessity of adequate training for employment executives, this training being such as to develop personality, intellect and knowledge to the highest possible degree. The aim and work of employment managers' associations was briefly outlined, the thought being that such associations should arrive at a basis of policy in employment management through detailed studies, such as are being made in plant after plant, checking the sources of abuse, clipping irresponsible authority, opening the channels of promotion and assuring permanency and regularity of employment.

One of the most interesting papers on the program of the conference was a description of the work of the employment department of the Ford Motor Company, the methods of hiring and placing men, keeping records of their efficiency, transferring to other departments those suited for the jobs for which they were hired, being outlined in detail and certain blank forms used by the department being exhibited.

The part to be taken by the school in the selection and training of workers, whether for nonskilled, medium skilled or highly skilled trades and industries, was discussed, this training to be given in all-day, continuous, part-time and evening schools with emphasis upon the latter as reaching the largest group. Reference was made to the recent vocational education survey in Minneapolis as a result of which 24 different trades and industries have agreed to give preference in employing workers to those who have taken industrial or technical instruction.

The importance of the relation of public employment bureaus to managers of employment was brought out, and the city-state-federal plan of bringing the man and the job together was endorsed as a means of diminishing unemployment and checking the great waste involved in frequent labor turnover.

On the second day of the conference Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce recited his experience in placing the product so as to keep the employment end busy, and urged the importance of hiring men with the same care that a machine is purchased, always with the thought that "brains and hearts and dispositions and all sorts of elements that make up personality" are being hired and not merely "hands." One element neglected in the employment problem, asserted the Secretary, is the human capacity for responsiveness. This is a man wholly unadapted for a certain job is allowed to continue because he was hired for that particular job, whereas his efficiency would be increased if put at work for which he is better fitted.

In the general discussion it was brought out that an employment managers' association is not supposed to take the place of a manufacturers' association, that it has no policy with regard to organized labor, and that it should take no part in legislative matters relating to labor; but that it should be a forum of information and experience, and that employees should be made to feel that they have a right to participate in the questions before the association to the end that real cooperation may result.

HOUSTON CHARGES FARMERS WASTE $100,000,000 FEEDER

Washington, June 20.—Mont continues to soar in price because a vast quantity of feed available for cattle is now either wasted or put to unprofitable uses, Secretary Houston declared today. He estimated the annual loss in grain straw and corn stores at $100,000,000.

Of an annual straw crop production of 120,000,000 tons experts have figured that only two-thirds is used in live stock production.

Redfield. The report covers data from sixty four establishments located in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Rochester, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and Milwaukee.

WOULD LEASE THE COAL DOCKS

Three Firms in the Fight for North End Property.

There is much speculation as to who will operate the coal docks of the Boston and Maine railroad at the North End since the lease of James Houghton and Company expired.

While the report has it that the Boston and Maine may operate the plant there is also a chance of it falling into other hands. If the Boston and Maine does not care to take it over it may go to either the New England Coal and Coke Company of Boston, Amoskeag Manufacturing Company of Manchester, or the Consolidation Coal Company.

If any of the above mentioned firms should decide to operate it there is no doubt as to the large amount of business that would be carried on there.

THE HERALD HEARS

That the wire for the fire alarm system must be coming on the German U-boat.

That it looks like a safe and sane fourth for Portsmouth.

That the new night patrolman is doing duty at the West End.

That the town of Lancaster, N. H., says it is off the map since the summer schedule of the Boston and Maine went into effect.

That the crews of the ships Montana and Washington appear to be rivals on the complimentary concert and dances held in this city.

That the Washington men are taking up another entertainment in this line and claim it will eclipse that of the Montana given on Wednesday evening.

That they will have to go some to beat that affair.

That Bill Leary, the fast ship artist of the P. A. C., will pitch for Farmington against a Boston team at Farmington on Saturday.

That Bill made a hit with the fans there the last time he appeared in the box.

That William Branks, the well known diver was recently called to Greystone, N. H., to search the river there for the body of an eight year old boy.

That he made four attempts to recover the drowned lad but was not successful, owing to the body being swept away by the strong current.

That Dan Cupid the ever busy winged boy has issued his last call to the June bride.

That the courts in St. Louis declare that a pedestrian has as much right in the street as an autolist.

That a man or woman who enforces that right now days takes a chance with so many reckless drivers at the wheel.

That clothes are said to make the man.

That we cannot say it fits the case of the dummy in the cornfield.

That the girl with the barber-pole skirt and the white shoes is more in evidence every day.

That some of the Portsmouth Elks who are to attend the convention at Baltimore next month will make the trip by automobile from this city.

That Dan Cupid is nearly as busy as Curraza, but not so fierce.

That most of the men of the first company C. A. C. have already taken the Federal oath.

That one of the city officials was recently baptized at St. John's Episcopal church.

That the day police and the new patrol auto were photographed at noon today.

That one of the warrant officers of the U. S. S. San Francisco is said to have recently taken a bride at Lewiston, Me.

That a fence on the curb around the Soldiers and Sailors' monument at Goodwin Park was requested by the Grand Army nearly two years ago.

That the city council or board of public works have certainly had time enough to think this over and do something.

That a fence there is badly needed, one such as is used in every city where a monument of this kind is erected.

That a path has been worn in the lawn by people who take a short cut across the park.

That everybody would like to see the coal diggers going again at the North End.

That a boy residing on Islington street has been gone from his home since Wednesday and the parents have been unable to locate him.

That he slipped on a Boston train after being corrected by his father.

That the president of the Herald club says no wrist watches for the members.

That they can carry an alarm clock strapped to the ankle if they wish, but no young timepieces between the elbow and the hand.

That the ladies are now flashing the new "Highwayman's" coat.

That this doesn't mean they are going to hold up anybody in a dark alley.

THIS CITY IS FAVORED BY COMMITTEE

Executive Board Wants Convention Held Here and Not at Nashua.

Several papers throughout the state have reported that the next convention of the State Firemen's Association will take place in Nashua. This report is not correct. At the meeting held at Manchester on Monday last the nine members who make up the executive board were in favor of Portsmouth, including the representatives from Nashua.

The local firemen who figure in the expense of the two days' gathering are willing to help again but some financial assistance is needed from outside the department and it is hoped that it will be realized from other sources.

The state association allows $300 toward the expenses wherever the convention is held and this is a good start for any city or town that gets the convention. The affair, which is
